

What is the Nova Scotia Sea School?

The Sea School offers primarily teenagers, ages 11 to 18, adventure experiences that transform how they see themselves, the world around them and their capacity to contribute to our society. By living on a small boat or building a boat with their hands youth gain the confidence and awareness to make important decisions about their lives. On a Sea School experience young people make new friends, discover areas of personal intelligence they might not have valued or known about, connect with the beauty of Nova Scotia and see their role in preserving it, gain firsthand experience of our maritime history and traditions, learn healthy living and build strong environmental ethics.

Checklist for Success

- We have an understanding of the ethical issues
- Everyone in our organisation genuinely wants to make a difference in the lives of youth at risk
- Our organisation has the capacity to work with youth at risk (registration system, program, follow-up process is set up to work for them and all staff are trained to do it right)

Mission

The Nova Scotia Sea School promotes the Maritime tradition of boats and the sea as a means for young people to learn the values that seafaring has taught for generations; Leadership, Courage, Responsibility, Cooperation, Generosity, Environmental Stewardship and Respect.
